1. University and Union Codes of Behaviour

Student groups and their members are reminded that they and their members are bound by the Cardiff University Code of Behaviour:

“This Code shall apply to all students when they may reasonably be regarded as being under the auspices of the University. This shall include behaviour arising at any time when the student may be regarded as representing the University as an individual or as part of a team or group.

A student shall not engage in conduct which may involve an offence against a person; cause a nuisance, damage, deface, misappropriate or misuse any property of the University and the Students' Union; or otherwise behave in a manner likely to bring the University into disrepute or likely to cause offence to others.

A student shall not engage in any form of harassment towards other students which causes, or which might reasonably be expected to cause distress by such means as bullying, verbally or physically abusing, ill-treating or otherwise creating or maintaining a hostile environment for that other, including via the use of social networking sites, other websites or any other forms of electronic media and communication.”

And the Cardiff University Students' Union Code of Conduct:

“The Union expects members and guests of the Union to engage in a positive manner with students, staff and visitors to the University and Union when engaged in use of the services and activities provided or when recognisable as a representative of the organisation.

The following (non exhaustive list) would be considered instances of where the standard of behaviour of members is a concern and therefore may result in disciplinary action if found to have taken place:

- behaviour causing or likely to cause physical harm to others;
- any form of harassment, unlawful discrimination or bullying of others;
- drunken and disorderly behaviour;
- possession or sale of illegal drugs;
- bringing the Union into disrepute;
- theft or fraud;
- deliberate damage to property;
- breach of any terms of membership of the Athletic Union or Guild of Societies;
- breach of any Policies or Bye-Laws of the Union “

These codes of behaviour apply to all members of student groups and any associated people connected to student groups including both paid and voluntary coaches and instructors. It applies without geographic restriction, can be applied whether activity is official student activity or not and also relates to behaviour whilst travelling to and from student group activities.

2. Student Group Standards of Behaviour

All members and associated persons of Student Groups are expected to:

- respect the rights, dignity and values of others
- be fair, considerate and honest in all dealings with others
- take responsibility for their actions
- not encourage or pressure others into acting against the code
- operate within the rules of the activity
- be aware of how their actions may be perceived by others
- maintain high standards of personal behaviour at all times
- refrain from any form of harassment of others
- refrain from any behaviour that may bring the University, the Union or the Student Group into disrepute
- comply with all reasonable instructions issued by officials
- not act in an unlawful manner

Please note that these expectations apply both at events and activities as well as online and social media and any other time where individuals are deemed to be acting as or identified to be representatives of the student group.

The Union recognises the value of social activity to compliment student group activity for members of such groups. Social activity builds friendships, bonds and communities among members and can support individual and group development. However the Union also recognises that in some situations, such social activity can pose physical and psychological risks if due care is not observed by those involved. In line with this, the Union encourages all student groups and members to conduct themselves appropriately and drink responsibly.

3. Social Activity and “Initiations”

Social activity enhances the experience of students and allows members to meet, socialise and build relationships within a student group. We encourage our student groups to have a healthy and active social environment. At times however, individuals and student groups have stepped over the line into the realms of unsafe or inappropriate conduct. To provide clarity on what we expect of the behaviour of student groups, committees, members and other representatives, the Union only permits social activity:

- Where students are genuinely free to participate or abstain from any or all social activity as choose, and
- Where there is no fear of reprisal, consequence, non-selection or other discrimination for non-participation in some or all social activity, and
- Where (in the view of the Union) activity it is not seeking to humiliate or degrade participants, nor includes any behaviour that would be considered unlawful, and
- Where the activity does not bring the reputation of Cardiff University, Cardiff University Students’ Union or the student group into question or disrepute, and
- Where it is undertaken in a manner that does not place undue risk upon those involved

The term “initiation” is linked to activities and behaviour that may be seen as a rite of passage, often involving activity that humiliates, degrades, creates fear and includes excessive alcohol consumption.

The Union DOES NOT PERMIT SUCH ACTIVITIES and will take a zero tolerance approach dealing with them. We will work closely with Cardiff University and South Wales Police to investigate and take action against those who organise, take part or permit such activity to take place.

The Union expects that student group committee members, lead volunteers, senior members and the wider membership take responsibility for ensuring that such activities do not take place and to respond appropriately should they become aware of any such planned or spontaneous activity. Committee members are responsible and will be held accountable for the actions of their members.

As well as adhering to these expectations, we also expect student groups to:

- Consider how the student group can be made to feel as welcoming as possible to all students irrespective of personal characteristics
- Consider how others may perceive behaviour
- Consider the barriers to participation for different students and seek to ensure all reasonable attempts are made to remove them

Where social activity is in breach of the standards expected above, the Union will take action as detailed in Section 6. Actions in the Event of a Breach of this Policy.

4. Member Responsibilities

The Union expects that student groups take all reasonable steps to ensure that it and its members conduct themselves in a manner that is consistent with the expectations set out in this document.

Members Responsibilities

All members of student groups are bound by these guidelines and should at all times act in a reasonable manner, obey the law, any University or Union Policy and behave in a manner that does not put any other individual at risk.

What you need to do?

We expect that all student groups, members, committees and other representatives:

- Will show appropriate respect towards members of the public, members of Cardiff University and other institutions, at all times
- Will behave responsibly and not act in a way that may damage the image of the student group or bring the organisation into disrepute, or put any individual at risk of harm
- Will not encourage or coerce individuals into undertaking anything that they do not wish to do

In the event that you believe that the standards of behaviour detailed in the document are not being upheld, you can report concerns via:

5. Student Groups Managing Behaviour of Members

A culture of poor behaviour can develop where a student group fails to tackle (or endorses) poor behaviour. We expect that:

- Student groups and their committees are responsible for the actions of their members, both on and off the field of play.
- Student groups and their committees work to promote positive culture of behaviour
- Students groups and their committees will take appropriate action to challenge and manage instances of poor behaviour

We expect student groups to take positive action to challenge inappropriate behaviour. This must include:

- Clear communication of expected standards of behaviour to all members upon joining and through the year
- Student group activities and events to be organised with consideration of how to encourage appropriate and prevent inappropriate behaviour of members
- Challenging inappropriate behaviour of members when it occurs and taking appropriate action. This action should be proportionate, but clearly demonstrate that inappropriate behaviour will not be tolerated. Such action could/should include:
  - Official and documented warnings to members
  - Suspension of access to some or all student group activities
  - Reporting of individuals/incidents to the Students' Union

All student groups are expected produce, maintain and enforce explicit guidance to be shared with all members and take steps to demonstrate that inappropriate behaviour will mean members are restricted from undertaking activity.

If a student group fails to take appropriate action to manage behaviour of its members, both at social activities and social events, the Union reserves the right to take action against the student group as a whole order to challenge inappropriate behaviour. Where committee members are unable or unwilling to challenge poor behaviour, they may considered to be in breach of this policy and face investigation and if appropriate, disciplinary action.

6. Actions in the Event of Breach of this Policy

If the Union becomes aware of behavioural issues, which may have occurred, it will work with various stakeholders to ensure a full investigation is conducted. Such stakeholders will include but not be limited to the Union and University staff, other institutions, venues and the police.

Following an investigation under the Students' Union Complaints and Discipline procedures, any breach of this policy may result in one or more of the following:

(please note this is not an exhaustive list)

- Suspension of an individual's access to activities or services provided by the student group
- Suspension of an individual's access to services provided by the Students' Union
- Suspension of individuals from Cardiff University High Performance Programme
- Suspension of a student group's access to facilities, funding or other services provided by the Union or University
- Suspension or removal of individuals from the student group
- Suspension or removal of committee members from the student group
- Financial reimbursement for damage or financial loss
- Referral of matters to Cardiff University for consideration under academic regulations including fitness to practice
- Referral of matters to South Wales Police for consideration under criminal proceedings
- Temporary or permanent dissolution of the student group

Please be in no doubt that any breach of this policy could ultimately result in a student(s) being excluded from the University.
